Play with texture. Use various colors, shapes, and textures to create a dynamic landscape that feels elegant and luxurious, like your own private resort.

Be mindful of sunlight. Some plants enjoy full sun more than others, so make sure you choose ones that can handle the Florida heat.

Consider seasonality. Choosing plantings that bloom in different seasons will make sure your space stays green and vibrant all year long.

Embrace the beach. For beachfront properties, be sure to select plants that can withstand salt air and ocean winds.

LIVING GREEN

CREATE RESORT-INSPIRED SPACES AT HOME WITH FERNANDO WONG

Fernando Wong is making urban green living a reality. The renowned Miami landscape architect's local portfolio includes Soho Beach House, the Institute of Contemporary Art Museum's sculpture garden, and the Residences at Four Seasons Hotel at The Surf Club in Miami. He's also helping buyers of the upcoming Four Seasons Fort Lauderdale property transform their rooftop decks, terraces, and balconies into stylish green lounges. With a bit of imagination, you can convert a corner of your home into a place of relaxation and connect with nature. Wong shares a few tips on how to execute a resort-inspired retreat.

PRO TIPS

THE COBBLERS

Rescue your fine goods with help from master artisans

Have you ever wondered where to take your favorite pair of sneakers or lackluster handbag that requires some TLC? Try paying a visit to The Cobblers, where Warren Barthes and his team of professionals are taking fine goods repairs to new heights with an e-commerce platform that promises to restore your shoes, bags, and belts to their original glory.

From replacing a Birkin bag's hardware to making Christian Louboutin red soles look new again, artisans conduct laser-sharp restorations dedicated to maintaining the original shape, fit, balance, and craftsmanship of luxury goods. You can also transform one-of-a-kind kicks with fun or classic customizations such as painting, airbrushing, and fabric substitution.

The company's digital experience lists more than 300 offerings and a complimentary online concierge consultation that makes it easy to select a service, send your product, and track every step of the process. Shipping is free, and insurance is included. Clients are also welcome to stop by the new brick-and-mortar locale in Miami. (thecobblers.com) —J.A.
